The appellant, under Rule 12, forfeited his rights by neglecting the case for more than one year, and while in neglect was susperseded in the attorneyship. Therefore, action denying him a fee was proper.

The Commissioner of Pensions,

Sir:

E. S. Weedon of Chicago, Illinois, on March 1, 1902, entered an appeal from the action of the Bureau denying him a fee on the issue of June 12, 1900, in the claim for pension under the act of June 27, 1890, of Armstrong Walton who served in Company "C",146th Illinois Volunteer Infantry.

There was filed December 22, 1894, in behalf of the soldier a claim for pension under the act of June 27, 1890; it was rejected June 28, 1895. The appellant August 10, 1897, filed another declaration for pension under the act of June 27, 1890, in behalf of the soldier, and on June 27, 1898, he filed a call for status.

J. W. Morris of Washington, D.C., on March 19, 1898, filed a power of attorney and on June 15, 1898, and July 15, 1899, filed evidence; he was recognized January 10, 1900.

Certificate issued June 12, 1900, to allow pension from August 10, 1897, date of filing declaration by the appellant; on said issue no fee was paid to him, hence this appeal.

Reproduced at the National Archives

In order for an attorney to preserve his rights to recognition when he comes into a claim under the act of June 27, 1890, by filing a new declaration, he must perform some service at intervals of one year until he has been recognized or the claim has been allowed. In this case the appellant appeared therein on August 10, 1897; he then called up the case June 27, 1898, and thereafter took no further action. Under the rules he forfeited his rights June 27, 1899, by neglect of the case. Thereupon the power of attorney in favor of Mr. Morris became operative. The latter was entitled to recognition when the claim was allowed.

The appellant was denied a fee upon the ground that under Rule 12, he had forfeited his rights by neglecting the case for more than one year and while in neglect was superseded in the attorneyship. Action affirmed. The papers in the case are herewith returned.

Very respectfully,

F. L. Campbell
Assistant Secretary.

In re fee appeal in claim)
Armstrong Walton, C 146th) Docket No.----- Ill. Vol. Inf., Ctf. 1,003,989)

Sir:-

In response to your call for report upon the appeal of Attorney E. S. Weedon of Chicago, in the matter of fee on the issue of Jun. 12,1900, in the above-entitled claim for pension under the Act of June 27,1890, I have the honor to submit the following:-

The record shows that on August 10,1897, after a rejection, appellant filed in behalf of the above-named soldier a new declaration for pension under the Act of June 27,1890, which contained a power of attorney in his favor, and in which chronic diarrhoea, rheumatism, general debility, and injury of left knee were alleged as the disabling causes. The next action taken by him in the claim was the filing of a call for status on June 27, 1898, after which appellant apparently abandoned the claim. Under the decisions of the Department where an attorney files a new application for pension under the Act of June 27, 1890, after a rejection, he is only required to call up the claim at intervals of one year or less until given its status; (see decision of the Department in the case of William Coleman, V. 8, P. D. 450.)

Appellant's failure to call up the claim for a period of one year from June 27, 1898, was, under rule 12 of the rules of practice, neglect, the consequence of which was the forfeiture of his attorneyship rights.

On March 19,1898, Attorney J. W. Morris of this city filed a power of attorney, and on June 15, 1898, and July 15, 1899, he filed evidence. He was called upon for evidence on Jan. 10th and Feb. 7,1900. Mr. Morris became entitled to recognition in the claim after appellant had forfeited his attorneyship rights, and having complied with the requirements of the Bureau in similar cases, he was entitled to recognition when the call of Jan. 10, 1900, was made upon him. From this latter date he was entitled to recognition for the period of at least a year, and having rendered material service was entitled to receive the benefit of all service rendered within the said year, whether by himself or some other person. Completing evidence was filed April 24, 1900, but there is no endorsement to show by whom it was filed.As Mr.Morris became entitled to recognition, rendered material service, and was entitled when the claim was completed and allowed, it is believed that the action of the Bureau in paying the fee to him was proper. It is therefore respectfully recommended that the contention of the appeal be denied. Mr. Morris, who was paid a fee of ten dollars, has been advised of the filing of this appeal. The papers and the appeal, erroneously docketed as merit appeal 73649, are herewith transmitted.

Very respectfully,

Commissioner.
